

ANNOUNCING:

The SAN FRANCISCO STATE SCHOLARS PROGRAM in PHILOSOPHY

- By joining this program and registering full-time, you can get both a bachelor's and a master's degree in FIVE years (THREE years for junior transfer students)! But you can also move more slowly through the program, should that be right for you.
- You may enter as early as your sophomore year or after transferring from a community college; you may be a full-time or part-time student.
- You will be eligible to pay reduced fees for your graduate education, and to apply for paid teaching positions, including TA-ships and Graduate Teaching Associateships.
- You will be part of an innovative new program at SFSU that offers students more opportunities to connect with their peers and additional advising.

Note that:

- Students with a master's degree in philosophy are much more competitive when applying to law schools, Ph.D. programs, and advanced degree programs of many kinds.
- SF State philosophers are especially competitive: San Francisco State's M.A. in Philosophy ranks among the top nine MA-only programs in the United States. San Francisco State Philosophy M.A.s and students have an excellent track-record in placing into advanced degree programs.
- Students who graduate with an M.A. are eligible to teach at both community colleges and universities throughout the United States.
